Stunning portraits by the renowned Renaissance artist illuminate fascinating figures from the European merchant class, intellectual elite, and court of King Henry VIII

Holbein Capturing Character

Edited by Anne T. Woollett, with contributions by Austėja Mackelaitė, John T. McQuillen, and others

ANNE T. WOOLLETT is curator of paintings at the J. Paul Getty Museum.

AUSTEJA MACKELAITĖ is the Annette and Oscar de la Renta Assistant Curator of Drawings and Prints at the Morgan Library & Museum.

JOHN T. MCQUILLEN is the associate curator of printed books and bindings at the Morgan Library & Museum.

Nobles, ladies, scholars, and merchants were the subjects of Hans Holbein the Younger (1497/98–1543), an inventive German artist best known for his dazzling portraits. Holbein developed his signature style in Basel and London amid a rich culture of erudition, self-definition, and love of luxury and wit before becoming court painter to Henry VIII. Accompanying the first major Holbein exhibition in the United States, this catalogue explores his vibrant visual and intellectual approach to personal identity. In addition to reproducing many of the artist's painted and drawn portraits, this volume delves into his relationship with leading intellectuals, such as Erasmus of Rotterdam and Thomas More, as well as his contributions to publishing and book culture, meticulous inscriptions, and ingenious designs for jewels, hat badges, and other exquisite objects.

The painting La Surprise by Jean Antoine Watteau (1684–1721) belongs to a new genre of painting invented by the artist himself—the fête galante. These works, which show graceful open-air gatherings filled with scenes of courtship, music and dance, strolling lovers, and actors, do not so much tell a story as set a mood: one of playful, wistful, nostalgic reverie. Esteemed by collectors in Watteau's day as a work that showed the artist at the height of his skill and success, La Surprise vanished from public view in 1848, not to reemerge for more than a century and a half. Acquired by the Getty Museum in 2017, it has never before been the subject of a dedicated publication. Marking the three hundredth anniversary of Watteau's death, this book considers La Surprise within the context of the artist's oeuvre and discusses the surprising history of collecting Watteau in Los Angeles.

This poetic and beautiful picture book chronicles the travels of Lewis Hine, who used his camera to document child labor in the early twentieth century

The Traveling Camera Lewis Hine and the Fight to End Child Labor

Alexandra S. D. Hinrichs, illustrated by Michael Garland

ALEXANDRA S. D. HINRICHS is the author of Thérèse Makes a Tapestry (Getty, 2016). She holds master's degrees in US history and library and information studies from the University of Wisconsin–Madison.

MICHAEL GARLAND is a New York Times best-selling author and illustrator of forty children's picture books and has illustrated more than fifty books by other authors.

Stunning visuals and poetic text combine to tell the inspiring story of Lewis Hine (1874–1940), a teacher and photographer who employed his art as a tool for social reform. Working for the National Child Labor Committee, Hine traveled the United States, taking pictures of children as young as five toiling under dangerous conditions in cotton mills, seafood canneries, farms, and coal mines. He often wore disguises to sneak into factories, impersonating a machinery inspector or traveling salesman. He said, "If I could tell this story in words, I wouldn't need to lug a camera." His poignant pictures attracted national attention and were instrumental in the passage of child labor laws. The Traveling Camera contains extensive back matter, including a time line, original photos, and a bibliography.

Illuminating Women Artists

This groundbreaking new series showcases the life and work of individual female artists who were well known and sought after in their own time, but whose names and works have not been passed down continuously in the history of art

This is the first book series to focus in a deliberate and sustained way on women artists throughout history, to honor their accomplishments, to revive their name recognition, and to make their works better known to art enthusiasts of the twenty-first century.

The series is launching at a critical moment in our book culture. It is a significant contribution to the movement underway—among museums, art dealers and collectors, and the wider world of cultural heritage—to reassess the contributions of women artists.

Distinguishing features

- The first books, focusing on Renaissance and Baroque artists, are written by art historians with expertise in the field of women's/gender studies.
 - Each volume focuses on an individual woman artist, presenting biographical information to the extent that it is known, contextual information about the environment in which she worked, and copious color illustrations.
 - Authors have been asked to explicitly address the general historical background of an artist's time and place, including the artistic, political, intellectual, social, and religious cultures that would have influenced her work.
 - The books address the ways in which women artists and their works influenced others, including male artists.
 - The series is backed by a stellar advisory board, which includes eminent international scholars in the field and an impressive slate of authors.

Luisa Roldán

Catherine Hall-van den Elsen

Luisa Roldán (1652–1706), also known as La Roldana, was an accomplished Spanish Baroque artist, much admired during her lifetime for her exquisitely crafted and painted wood and terracotta sculptures. Roldán trained under her father and worked in Seville, Cádiz, and Madrid. She even served as sculptor to the royal chambers of two kings of Spain. Yet despite her great artistry and achievements, she has been largely forgotten by modern art history. This volume places Roldán's work in context alongside that of other artists of the period, including Velázquez, Murillo, and Zurbarán, and provides much-needed insight into what life was like for this trailblazing artist of seventeenth-century Spain.

CATHERINE HALL-VAN DEN ELSSEN studied Spanish art at La Trobe University in Melbourne, Australia. She completed her MA and PhD on the life and work of Luisa Roldán.

Artemisia Gentileschi

Sheila Barker

The life of the Italian painter Artemisia Gentileschi (1593–1653) was as exceptional as her paintings. She was a child prodigy, raised without a mother by her artist father, a follower of Caravaggio, under whom she apprenticed. As a young woman, she was raped by her father's assistant and faced torture during her attacker's trial. Later, as she moved between Florence, Rome, Venice, Naples, and London, her artistic style evolved as she learned from the artworks and intellectuals she encountered, but throughout her career she specialized in powerful, nuanced portrayals of women. This is the first biography to be written by an authority on Gentileschi since 1999 and includes five newly discovered paintings.

SHEILA BARKER is director of the Jane Fortune Research Program on Women Artists in the Age of the Medici. She wrote the introduction to Lives of Artemisia Gentileschi (Getty, 2021) and is a contributor to Artemisia (2020).

Rubens Picturing Antiquity

Edited by Anne T. Woollett, Davide Gasparotto, and Jeffrey Spier

For the great Peter Paul Rubens (1577–1640), the classical past afforded lifelong creative stimulus and the camaraderie of humanist friends. A formidable scholar, Rubens ingeniously transmitted the physical ideals of ancient sculptors, visualized the spectacle of imperial occasions, rendered the intricacies of mythological tales, and delineated the character of gods and heroes in his drawings, paintings, and designs for tapestries. His passion for antiquity profoundly informed every aspect of his art and life.

Including 170 color illustrations, this volume addresses the creative impact of Rubens's remarkable knowledge of the art and literature of antiquity through the consideration of key themes. The book's lively interpretive essays explore the formal and thematic relationships between ancient sources and Baroque expressions: the significance of neo-Stoic philosophy, the compositional and iconographic inspiration provided by exquisite carved gems, Rubens's study of Roman marble sculpture, and his inventive translation of ancient sources into new subjects made vivid by his dynamic painting style.

Scenes of tripping maenads and skipping maidens, Nicolas Poussin's dancing pictures, painted in the 1620s and 1630s, helped him formulate a new style. This style would make him the model for three centuries of artists in the French classical tradition, from Jacques-Louis David and Edgar Degas to Paul Cézanne and Pablo Picasso.

Poussin and the Dance, the first published study devoted to this theme, situates the artist in seventeenth-century Rome, a city rich with the ancient sculptures and Renaissance paintings that informed his dancing pictures. Tracing the motif of dance through his early Roman production, this book examines how these works helped their maker confront the problem of arresting motion, explore the expressive potential of the body, and devise new methods of composition. The essays investigate how dance informed nearly every aspect of Poussin's artistic production, notably through his use of wax figurines to choreograph the compositions he drew and painted. This publication also considers Poussin's dancing pictures within a broader context of seventeenth-century European culture, collecting, and patronage.

The first study devoted to a single sculptor in ancient America, as understood through four unprovenanced masterworks traced to a small sector of Guatemala

A Maya Universe in Stone

Edited by Stephen Houston

STEPHEN HOUSTON is Dupee Family Professor of Social Sciences at Brown University.

In 1950, Dana Lamb, an explorer of some notoriety, stumbled on a Maya ruin in the tropical forests of northern Guatemala. Lamb failed to record the location of the site he called Laxtunich, turning his find into the mystery at the center of this book. The lintels he discovered there, long since looted, are probably of a set with two others that are among the masterworks of Maya sculpture from the Classic period. Using fieldwork, physical evidence, and Lamb’s expedition notes, the authors identify a small area with archaeological sites where the carvings were likely produced.

Remarkably, the vividly colored lintels, replete with dynastic and cosmic information, can be assigned to a carver, Mayuy, who sculpted his name on two of them. To an extent nearly unique in ancient America, Mayuy can be studied over time as his style developed and his artistic ambition grew. An in-depth analysis of Laxtunich Lintel 1 examines how Mayuy grafted celestial, seasonal, and divine identities onto a local magnate and his overlord from the kingdom of Yaxchilan, Mexico. This volume contextualizes the lintels and points the way to their repatriation and, as an ultimate aim, repatriation to Guatemala.

Abundantly illustrated, this essential volume examines depictions of the Underworld in southern Italian vase painting and explores the religious and cultural beliefs behind them

Underworld

Imagining the Afterlife in Ancient South Italian Vase Painting

Edited by David Saunders

DAVID SAUNDERS is associate curator of antiquities at the J. Paul Getty Museum. He coedited The Restoration of Ancient Bronzes: Naples and Beyond (Getty, 2013) and Dangerous Perfection: Ancient Funerary Vases from Southern Italy (Getty, 2016).

What happens to us when we die? What might the afterlife look like? For the ancient Greeks, the dead lived on, overseen by Hades in the Underworld. We read of famous sinners, such as Sisyphus, forever rolling his rock, and the fierce guard dog Kerberos, who was captured by Herakles. For mere mortals, ritual and religion offered possibilities for ensuring a happy existence in the beyond, and some of the richest evidence for beliefs about death comes from southern Italy, where the local Italic peoples engaged with Greek beliefs. Monumental funerary vases that accompanied the deceased were decorated with consolatory scenes from myth, and around forty preserve elaborate depictions of Hades's domain.

For the first time in over four decades, these compelling vase paintings are brought together in one volume, with detailed commentaries and ample illustrations. The catalogue is accompanied by a series of essays by leading experts in the field, which provides a framework for understanding these intriguing scenes and their contexts. Topics include attitudes toward the afterlife in Greek ritual and myth, inscriptions on leaves of gold that provided guidance for the deceased, funerary practices and religious beliefs in Apulia, and the importance accorded to Orpheus and Dionysos. Drawing from a variety of textual and archaeological sources, this volume is an essential source for anyone interested in religion and belief in the ancient Mediterranean.

This richly illustrated volume, the first devoted to maritime art and galley slavery in early modern France, shows how royal propagandists used the image and labor of enslaved Muslims to glorify Louis XIV

The Sun King at Sea Maritime Art and Galley Slavery in Louis XIV's France

Meredith Martin and Gillian Weiss

MEREDITH MARTIN is associate professor at New York University. She is an art historian specializing in French art, architecture, empire, and intercultural exchange from the late seventeenth to early nineteenth centuries.

GILLIAN WEISS is associate professor at Case Western Reserve University. She is a historian specializing in early modern France, its relations with the Islamic world, and Mediterranean slavery.

Mediterranean maritime art, and the forced labor on which it depended, was fundamental to the politics and propaganda of France's King Louis XIV. Most studies of French art in this period focus on Paris and Versailles, paying little attention to the presence or portrayal of galley slaves on the kingdom's coasts. By examining a wide range of artistic productions—ship design, artillery sculpture, medals, paintings, and prints—Meredith Martin and Gillian Weiss uncover a vital aspect of royal representation and unsettle a standard picture of art and power during Louis XIV's reign.

With an abundant selection of startling images, many never before published, The Sun King at Sea emphasizes the role of esclaves turcs (enslaved Turks)—rowers who were captured or purchased from Islamic lands—in building and decorating ships and other art objects that circulated between coast and capital to proclaim the power of the Sun King. This cross-disciplinary study challenges the conventional notion that human bondage vanished from continental France before the modern period. It invites a reassessment of servitude as a visible condition, mode of representation, and symbol of sovereignty in early modern France.

This volume explores the changing process of evaluating objects during the period of Japan's rapid modernization

Antiquarians of Nineteenth-Century Japan

The Archaeology of Things in the Late Tokugawa and Early Meiji Periods

Hiroyuki Suzuki

Edited and translated by Maki Fukuoka

HIROYUKI SUZUKI is professor emeritus of Japanese art history at Tokyo Gakugei University.

MAKI FUKUOKA is associate professor of the history of art at the University of Leeds.

Originally published in Japanese, Antiquarians of Nineteenth-Century Japan looks at the approach toward object-based research across the late Tokugawa and early Meiji periods, which were typically kept separate, and elucidates the intellectual continuities between these eras. Focusing on the top-down effects of the professionalizing of academia in the political landscape of Meiji Japan, which had advanced by attacking earlier modes of scholarship by antiquarians, Suzuki shows how those outside the government responded, retracted, or challenged new public rules and values. He explores the changing process of evaluating objects from the past in tandem with the attitudes and practices of antiquarians during the period of Japan's rapid modernization. He shows their roots in the intellectual sphere of the late Tokugawa period while also detailing how they adapted to the new era. Suzuki also demonstrates that Japan's antiquarians had much in common with those from Europe and the United States.

Art historian Maki Fukuoka provides an introduction to the English translation that highlights the significance of Suzuki's methodological and intellectual analyses and shows how his ideas will appeal to specialists and nonspecialists alike.

Among the earliest written texts on the history and theory of Netherlandish art, these two key writings are now available together in an English translation

The Life of Lambert Lombard (1565); and Effigies of Several Famous Painters from the Low Countries (1572)

Dominicus Lampsonius
Edited and translated by Edward H. Wouk

EDWARD H. WOUK is senior lecturer in art history and visual studies (1400–1800) at the University of Manchester and the author of Frans Floris (1519/20–1570): Imagining a Northern Renaissance (2018).

Dominicus Lampsonius's The Life of Lambert Lombard (1565) is the earliest published biography of a Netherlandish artist. This neo-Latin account of the life of the painter, architect, and draftsman Lambert Lombard of Liège offers a theoretical exposition on the nature and ideal practice of Netherlandish art, emphasizing Lombard's intellectual curiosity, interest in antiquity, attentive study of the human body, and exemplary generosity as a teacher.

This volume offers the first English edition of The Life of Lambert Lombard, complemented by a new translation of the inscriptions Lampsonius composed to accompany the Effigies of Several Famous Painters from the Low Countries (1572), a cycle of twenty-three engraved portraits of Netherlandish artists developed in collaboration with the print publisher Hieronymus Cock.

Together, The Life of Lambert Lombard and the Effigies established frameworks for a distinctly Netherlandish history of art. Responding to a growing sense of Netherlandish cultural and political identity on the eve of the Dutch Revolt, these texts proposed a critical alternative to Giorgio Vasari's Lives of the Artists and its Italian model of art historical development, celebrating local ingenuity and skill. They remain the starting point for any history of the northern Renaissance.

Getty Research Journal, No. 14

The Getty Research Journal presents peer-reviewed articles on the visual arts of all cultures, regions, and time periods. Topics relate to Getty collections, initiatives, and broad research interests. The journal welcomes a diversity of perspectives and methodological approaches and seeks to include work that expands narratives on global culture.

This issue features essays on a scientific examination of woven-gold fragments from the late Hellenistic and Roman periods; a new attribution of the J. Paul Getty Museum's sixteenth-century bust of Duke Ottavio Farnese to Lombard-born sculptor Giovanni Battista della Porta; an anonymous seventeenth-century manuscript on collecting ancient coins and recognizing counterfeits; two nineteenth-century photographic albums and the stock photography market in 1860s Chile; Édouard Manet's life-size Portrait of Madame Brunet and questions surrounding its sitter and early history; architectural historian Nikolaus Pevsner's changing attitude about the work of Catalan architect Antoni Gaudí in the 1950s and 1960s; and artist Allan Sekula's photographic projects and working method.

Shorter texts include notices on eighteenth-century cookbooks and the gastronomic influence of Huguenot immigrants in European circles; a conservator's technical summary on the Getty Museum's bust of Ottavio Farnese; Willard Morgan's photographs of modern architect Richard Neutra's Lovell House; and a handwritten, unfinished essay by critic Clement Greenberg on surrealist writer and theorist André Breton.

Interactions between Tragedy and Greek Vase-painting of the Fourth Century B.C.

Oliver Taplin

One of the most remarkable bodies of theatrically informed visual material from antiquity is Greek painted pottery. This reevaluation of 109 vases reveals that although the paintings are not direct representations of actors or scenes, they can be interpreted as referring to theatrical performances.

The Artist and His Critic Stripped Bare

The Correspondence of Marcel Duchamp and Robert Lebel
Bilingual Edition

Edited and translated by Paul B. Franklin
With a foreword by Jean-Jacques Lebel

The French art critic Robert Lebel played a key role in making the often hermetic life and abstruse ideas of his friend Marcel Duchamp more accessible to a larger public. In this engaging new translation of their witty, heartfelt, and sometimes tempestuous correspondence, the intimate details of both men's working practices and personal lives are revealed.

Harald Szeemann
Selected Writings

*Harald Szeemann
Edited by Doris Chon, Glenn Phillips,
and Pietro Rigolo
Translated by Jonathan Blower
and Elizabeth Tucker*

As a curator who helped herald in movements as disparate as Pop Art, Conceptualism, and Fluxus, Harald Szeemann is recognized as a tastemaker of twentieth-century art. He was also a prolific writer, but his writings had not been collected in English. This thoughtfully assembled volume takes up that task, and the result is a lively look inside the mind of the eccentric and respected Swiss curator.

Japanese Zen Buddhism and the Impossible Painting

Yukio Lippit

In this brief yet illuminating volume, Yukio Lippit explores the magnificent painting The Gourd and the Catfish, which was created around 1413 and is widely considered one of the most iconic works of Japanese Zen art. The painting shows a man standing awkwardly on a stream bank striving to achieve the impossible task of catching a catfish in a gourd, and it is this impossibility, Lippit shows, that is precisely the point.

Practical Discourses on the Most Noble Art of Painting

Jusepe Martínez

Edited by Zahira Véliz

Translated by David McGrath and Zahira Véliz

Jusepe Martínez's Practical Discourses on the Most Noble Art of Painting (ca. 1673–75) was highly influential on art, artists, and artistic practice and theory long after its publication. Buttressed by a thoughtful introduction and helpful notes, this volume is the first English translation of the Discourses, which, while circulated in manuscript copies, was not even published until the mid-nineteenth century.

Edited by Cristina Cuevas-Wolf
and Isotta Poggi

Essays by Katalin Cseh-Varga, Cristina
Cuevas-Wolf, Dávid Fehér, Steven
Mansbach, Géza Perneczky,
Isotta Poggi, and Tibor Valuch

In 1956, Hungarians led a short-lived rebellion against Soviet control, before the Soviet-aligned minister János Kádár assumed power. Focusing on the Kádár era (1956–89), this publication explores the political reforms and artistic experiments under the regime's authoritarian cultural policy by drawing on the writings and archives of contemporary artists and critics.

Sacred Landscapes
Nature in Renaissance Manuscripts

Bryan C. Keene and Alexandra Kaczynski

Distant blue hills, soaring trees, vast cloudless skies—the majesty of nature has always had the power to lift the human spirit. There was no time when this was truer than in the Renaissance, when artists depicted nature in their religious art to intensify spiritual experiences. This lushly illustrated exhibition catalogue compiles the most impressive examples found in devotional manuscripts.

Adolph Menzel

The Quest for Reality

Werner Busch

The work of Adolph Menzel is widely regarded as the epitome of realist art, and during his lifetime he was one of Germany's most famous artists. Today he is hailed as a master of atmospheric art, but book-length investigations of his work remain rare. Werner Busch corrects this art historical oversight, bringing Menzel's unique persona and influential paintings to life in the context of the art and politics of nineteenth-century Germany.

Eyewitness Views

Making History in Eighteenth-Century Europe

Peter Björn Kerber

Canaletto, Bellotto, Carlevarij, Panini, Guardi—these renowned view painters are perhaps most famous for their expansive canvases depicting the ruins of Rome or the canals of Venice. But these artists also captured contemporary events for their most eminent patrons. This volume reveals the politics and practices that influenced this often overlooked genre of European art.

Manet and Modern Beauty The Artist's Last Years

Edited by Scott Allan, Emily A. Beeny, and Gloria Groom

This stunning examination of the last years of Manet's life and career is the first book to explore the transformation of his style and subject matter in the 1870s and early 1880s. Fresh, intimate, and unapologetically pretty, the artist's late works demonstrate his fierce embrace of beauty and pleasure in the face of death.

On Modern Beauty Three Paintings by Manet, Gauguin, and Cézanne

Richard R. Brettell

As the discipline of art history has moved away from connoisseurship, the notion of beauty has become increasingly problematic, a term being both culturally and personally subjective and difficult to define. Examining beauty using three works of art by Manet, Gauguin, and Cézanne, this thought-provoking book dares to confront the concept of modern beauty head-on.

Unruly Nature The Landscapes of Théodore Rousseau

Scott Allan and Édouard Kopp
With Line Clausen Pedersen

Théodore Rousseau eschewed traditional historical, biblical, and allegorical subjects in favor of a Romantic naturalism that he called "unruly nature." In this book, the authors offer a novel look at this experimental artist working in a unique historical moment between the idealization of academic paintings and the radical modernity of the Impressionists.
