Big Lies

From Socrates to Social Media
By NYT bestselling author Mark Kurlansky
Illustrated by Eric Zelz

“A nation awash in misinformation, cloudy thinking, and suspect news desperately needs to read Big Lies. And Kurlansky and Zelz have made sure that people will want to.”

—Ron Charles, The Washington Post

This book for young readers, the future stewards of our world, is both a history and a how-to manual for seeing through propaganda, lies, and conspiracy theories. The modern age has provided ever-more-effective ways of spreading lies, but it has also given us the scientific method, which is the most effective tool there is for discerning what is true. In the book's final chapter, Kurlansky shows how to deconstruct a lie or conspiracy theory. Is there credible, testable evidence to support it? If not, suspect a lie. A scientific theory has to be testable, and so does an allegation. Who is the source? Who benefits? Is there a money trail?

★ “In this noteworthy guide to media literacy, Kurlansky breaks down the ‘big lies’ that permeate global history and explores how they affect the current US media landscape. Big Lies encourages readers to think critically, citing that a ‘lack of caring what is true or false is the undoing of democracy.’”

—Publishers Weekly (starred)

★ “Impassioned, thorough, and brilliant; describes the struggle for truth that ‘keeps the world from descending into chaos.’”

—Kirkus Reviews (starred)

“A sweeping and essential book.”

—Books to Borrow . . . Books to Buy

“A tremendous asset to a classroom or library.”

—Jewish Book Council

“Offers a particularly broad view of how and why hucksters lie, how technological changes have magnified the lies’ effectiveness, and how critical thinking skills enable people to recognize the big lies that can threaten a free society.”

—Booklist

Mark Kurlansky's (New York, NY) thirty-four books for adults and young readers include four New York Times bestsellers (Cod; Salt; 1968; and The Food of a Younger Land) and have been translated into thirty languages. The New York Times called World Without Fish “a compelling narrative for young people.”

Eric Zelz (Bangor, ME) is a designer, illustrator, and educator whose illustrations for Pass the Pandowdy, Please (page 82), Read This Book If You Don't Want a Story (page 81), and My Monster Moofy (page 54) have received awards and starred reviews.

The Cat at Night

Dahlov Ipcar

New afterword by Carl Little

$18.95 hardcover
 ISBN 978-1-958394-22-9
 8.5 x 11 • 56 pages
 Illustrated in color throughout
 Ages 4 - 8
 PICTURE BOOK FICTION

The golden jubilee edition of a children's classic first published in 1969.

Join the farmer's cat on his fascinating nighttime journey through fields, farms, forests, and even the city to see what only he can see after the sun sets. Legendary artist Dahlov Ipcar mesmerizingly alternates between dark night scenes and vivid color to deliver a beautifully illustrated children's classic. Each scene is shown first as a human would see it at night, and then as a cat sees it in with vivid color and fine detail. This commemorative edition features a new backmatter tribute to Dahlov's artistry and to The Cat at Night from her biographer, poet and art critic Carl Little.

Dahlov Ipcar was born in Vermont, raised in Greenwich Village, and summered in Maine after her parents (the famed sculptor William Zorach and artist Marguerite Zorach) bought a farm there in 1923. Dahlov moved from New York City to the farm with her husband in 1937. Her children's book career began in the early 1940s, when she illustrated The Little Fisherman by Margaret Wise Brown. This charming title helped launch a four-decade run that saw her write and illustrate more than thirty children's books of her own. Today, her artwork is known worldwide. Dahlov Ipcar kept creating until her death in 2017, at age 99.

Carl Little is the author of many art books, including Edward Hopper's New England, The Watercolors of John Singer Sargent, The Art of Francis Hamabe, and The Art of Dahlov Ipcar. His poetry has appeared in the Paris Review, Off the Coast, Hudson Review, Words & Images, and other journals and anthologies.

The thirtieth-anniversary edition of a beloved children's book

"Barry Moser's illustrations glow with the quiet warmth and heart of the Mushroom Man and complement so well this story of friendship."

—Eric Carle

The Mushroom Man has arrived at its thirtieth anniversary despite breaking every rule of picture-book storytelling. It is not a story about children: The only kids make a cameo appearance to taunt the mushroom man in the street. It is not a heroic story: The mushroom man toils away in a mushroom farm, coming to resemble a mushroom himself. The story doesn't teem with personalities: The mushroom man's existence is solitary. So why does it endure? Because it is a story of true and generous friendship.

This commemorative edition includes a new introduction from Barry Moser remembering his collaboration and friendship with Ethel Pochocki. "This remains one of my all-time favorite books for kids, and some of these illustrations are among the best I've ever done," Barry writes. There is also new backmatter in which Barry peels back the curtain on his illustration technique, making this book a marvelous accompaniment for teaching children's book writing and illustrating.

Ethel Pochocki discovered her passion for books and writing during her years working at the New York City Public Library. Moving her eight children to a farm in Brooks, Maine, she pounded out her fresh, quirky, unforgettable children's stories on a manual typewriter. Ethel died in 2010.

Barry Moser has illustrated and designed more than 300 books, including illustrated editions of Moby Dick, Frankenstein, and The Divine Comedy. His edition of Alice's Adventures in Wonderland won a National Book Award in 1983. His Jump, Again! The Further Adventures of Brer Rabbit was included in The New York Times "Ten Best Illustrated Children's Books" of 1987. He is Professor of Art at Smith College.

"In his narrative illustrations, Mr. Moser gives his own reading, conducts his own orchestra."

—Peter Neumeyer, children's book author and critic,
The New York Times

The Mushroom Man Thirtieth Anniversary Edition

Ethel Pochocki

Illustrated by Barry Moser

"A little gem about true friendship that was almost lost in the great grinder that is the publishing world. Thanks to Ethel Pochocki's lovely little story, Barry Moser's ever glorious pictures, and Tilbury House for rescuing it."

—Jane Yolen

"Moser's shadowy, offbeat style harmonizes with Pochocki's uncommonly inspired text. A wonderfully odd tale of friendship."

Sew Sister

The Untold Story of Jean Wright and NASA's Seamstresses

Written and Illustrated by Elise Matich

Did you know that the white material on the outside of space shuttles was not metal or glass but actually fabric? Specialized quilts, two inches thick, covered the space shuttles and protected the astronauts from deadly heat and radiation. Jean Wright was one of the eighteen "Sew Sisters" who crafted these thermal blankets, mostly by hand, with incredible precision and skill. Capturing both the grandeur of space flight and the intimacy of a needle and thread, Sew Sister tells the story of Jean's childhood passion for space and sewing, and her fascinating work for NASA's shuttle program.

Elise Matich's elegant prose and stunning, detailed artwork harmonize with the STEAM concept at the heart of this story: the role of skilled hands and artistry in STEM fields like aeronautics. Sew Sister offers a heroine in the context of space exploration who doesn't go to college or excel at math; instead, it is her excellence in a trade—one traditionally practiced by women—that allows her to achieve her dream. NASA's space shuttle fleet was retired in 2011.

Elise Matich (Alexandria, VA) is an educator, artist, writer, and mother. Sew Sister is the first in a series of picture book biographies she is working on that explore the lives of figures who have been overlooked or overshadowed in their fields.

The Thing to Remember About Stargazing

Written by Matt Forrest Esenwine

Illustrated by Sonia Possentini

What is the most important thing to remember about stargazing? When to do it, who to do it with, what to look for? It's none of those! This picture book's spare, lyrical text offers many possible ways to do stargazing: with a friend, with family, or alone; on a moonless night, or with a full moon, or even with some clouds; on the beach, lying in the grass, or standing on a snowy hill. There is only one rule of stargazing, which is saved for the end, and that is just to do it! Magical illustrations show polar bears, whales, and other animals stargazing too, and in the final illustration, diverse kids and animals gaze at the night sky together. Backmatter about the constellations completes this bedtime story with its underlying message of love and respect for nature.

Matt Forrest Esenwine (Warner, NH) is the author of numerous picture books, and his poetry can be found in anthologies like The National Geographic Book of Nature Poetry and the Donald Hall tribute, Except for Love.

Sonia Possentini (Modena, Italy) has illustrated thirteen award-winning children's books, including Night Creatures (2021, Millbrook Press); Hold On to Your Music (2021, Little, Brown); and Lion Lights (see page 34).

Ben Rothery's Deadly and Dangerous Animals

Written and Illustrated by Ben Rothery

A stunning visual exploration of what it takes to be counted among the deadliest animals on Earth. From the saltwater crocodile's viselike bite to the golden eagle's lightning attack from the air, many of the creatures featured in this upper-level picture book are built for danger. But what makes a chameleon or ant so threatening, and which creature is the deadliest of all to humans, despite its tiny size? Award-winning illustrator Ben Rothery's fact-filled book of the planet's most dangerous creatures has the answers.

HIDDEN PLANET

Secrets of the Animal Kingdom

Shortlisted for the Waterstones Children's Book Prize 2020

The creatures in this book are hidden in various ways. Some survive by means of symbiotic relationships with other creatures, like the clownfish living among an anemone's poisonous tentacles. Some are closely related to seemingly unconnected animals, like the elephant and the manatee. Some use hidden abilities to do amazing things. Some change color. Some change sex. Some disguise themselves. Some secrete themselves but remain nearby. The stunning illustrations in this large-format book reveal nature's magnificence, which often hides in plain sight.

★Lovers of animals and of animal art alike will pore over both this showcase and its companion.

"Jenks explores several related themes—the healing power of nature, coming out of a somber mood, altering one's perspective—that all work in tandem here.

Spirited revelations!"

—Kirkus Reviews

William lives in a glum world. His moods and his thoughts are gray. Even most of his clothes are gray. But a girl named Purple appears one gray morning, the only dash of color in William's otherwise dull yard. She asks his name, and when he answers "Um, well..." she dubs him Umwell the Gray, then pulls him into an exploration of a world that is always new and exciting when seen through her eyes—a parallel universe to the one William has been inhabiting.

This powerful picture book provides an occasion and vehicle to pull kids away from video screens and into closer contact with the natural world around them and the imaginative worlds within.

A New Day for Umwell the Gray

Nathaniel Jenks

Illustrated by Rebecca Evans

"The world is never boring, Umwell the Gray," Purple said as they walked. "It's always new."

"Everything looks the same to me," said William. "And stop calling me that."

"Look at the sun peeking through," she said. "And the clouds look like blueberry muffins, dancing in the sky!"

William looked. "The clouds are sort of blue, but I don't see any dancing muffins," he grumped.

"It's already changing," Purple said. "Things are always new because they're always changing."

"Do you really think I'm new?" William asked her as they headed home.

"Everything is new, William," smiled Purple. "People are always new, just like me."
William thought about this as they walked. The clouds were changing shape, and leaves were fluttering in the breeze. The water swirling in the stream sounded like laughter.

Linda Ryden

Illustrated by Shearry Malone

★ STARRED REVIEW
—Youth Services Book Review

When Ms. Snowden introduces the THINK Test, she tells her students that T = True, H = Helpful, N = Necessary, and K = Kind. If what they're about to say isn't any of these things, they shouldn't say it. Later that day, when Tyaja is about to criticize her friend Dhavi's new haircut, she is stopped by four little elves sporting the letters T, H, N, and K, who reinforce Ms. Snowden's lesson. Tyaja learns that she is the “I” in THINK!

"Beautiful, life-like endangered animal illustrations."

—Youth Services Book Review

Here is a bedtime board book featuring endangered animals. Baby pandas, wallabies, polar bears, red wolves, tigers, spotted owls, and Key deer nestle down for the night while a human mother reads her children to sleep and a full moon shines through the window. Brief, child-friendly animal descriptions follow the story. This bedtime story lets parents decide whether or not to introduce the concept of endangered species to the lovely, gentle, soothing poem.

Terry Pierce was a Montessori teacher for 22 years before writing children's books. Formerly she was a production designer and writer of feature films including Thunder Run (1986) and illustrated game materials for Dungeons & Dragons.

A timely story of kids pushing back against book banning and supporting their immigrant classmates.

Kanzi, the immigrant girl of Aya Khalil and Anait Semirdzhyan's bestselling picture book The Arabic Quilt, has come to feel welcome in her American school—that is, until an entire shelf of books about immigrant kids and kids of color suddenly disappears from the school library. Upon learning that books with kids who look like her have been banned by her school district, Kanzi is overcome by confusion and fear. But her classmates support her, and together—with their teacher's help—they hatch a plan to hold a bake sale and use the proceeds to buy diverse books for libraries. The event is a big success; the entire school participates, and the local TV station covers it in the evening news. Prodded by her classmates to read the poem she has written, Kanzi starts softly but finds her voice. "You have banned important books, but you can't ban my words," she reads. "Books are for everyone." The crowd chants, "No banned books! No banned books!" and the next week, the ban is reversed.

The backmatter includes a recipe for baklava, the Egyptian pastry that Kanzi prepares for the bake sale.

Listen to the Earth

Carme Lemniscates

From the illustrator of Grandma's Gardens (by Hillary and Chelsea Clinton), here is a new and original framing of climate change and how to respond to it. The lyrical narrative, gorgeous illustrations, and information-rich sidebars are built around the central concept of Earth Overshoot Day, the date each year when humanity has used all the resources and generated all the waste the planet can replace and absorb in the entire year. In 2022 that date was July 28th—everything we consume and discard from then to December 31 is borrowed from the future. Listen to the Earth describes and illustrates in child-friendly terms the global societal changes and actions—all of which are known and practical—that will push Earth Overshoot Day toward the end of the year to make our planet sustainable. We know what to do; all that is needed is the will to do it. In this call to action, the path ahead is illuminated by an optimistic faith in kids.

IMMIGRANT ARCHITECT

Rafael Guastavino and the American Dream

Written by Berta de Miguel,
Kent Diebolt, and Virginia Lorente

Illustrated by Virginia Lorente

Junior Library Guild Selection

Named to the ALA’s Nonfiction Core Collection, Biography
2022 Texas Topaz Nonfiction Reading List

The Spanish architects Rafael Guastavino Sr. and his son, Rafael Guastavino Jr., designed more than one thousand iconic spaces across New York City and the United States. Written in the voice of the son, who was eight years old in 1881 when he immigrated to America with his father, this is their story. Immigrant Architect is an introduction to architectural concepts and a timely reminder of immigrant contributions to America. The book includes four route maps for visiting Guastavino-designed spaces in New York City: uptown, midtown, downtown, and Prospect Park.

“A firm foundation for building interest in architecture, and a solid STEAM resource.”

—Kirkus Reviews

“Beautiful, informative, and fascinating, this is a great addition to school and public library biography collections.”

I AM COYOTE

Gerri Vistein

Combining rigorous science with imaginative storytelling, I Am Coyote reveals the complex outer and inner lives of coyotes. We are not the only sentient beings on this planet; we are not unique in experiencing love, fear, grief, joy, and acceptance. This story penetrates the veil of “otherness” that separates us from the creatures with whom we share the world. Gerri Vistein is a nationally recognized expert on coyote-human interactions and maintains the website CoyoteLivesInMaine.com.

Meet Frank

Mavis Lui

Meet Frank is a picture book about our unique and beautiful qualities. Frank is a curious little alien from the planet XOB, where everyone looks the same: same box shape, same green color, same googly eyes on stalks. Convinced there must be something more, Frank explores the universe and lands on Earth, where he befriends three little Earthlings who all look very different. By celebrating their unique qualities, they help Frank answer his questions about humankind’s kaleidoscope of colors. Inspired, he returns to his home planet, determined to help his fellow beings explore and celebrate their differences too.

Enough Is . . .

Jessica Whipple

Illustrated by Anait Semirdzhyan

For kids encountering the pressure to fit in with peers, this picture-book story explores a concept that is key to happiness: how much is enough? How many friends, turns, clothes, toys, fashion accessories, books? How much of anything? The pictures follow one child as she learns the difference between wanting and needing and, in the end, feels the contentment that flows from being satisfied with what she has. The text, meanwhile, frames a difficult idea in simple, spare language: “Somewhere between a little and a lot, there is Enough. It might be hard to spot, but it’s always there.”

Steven Spielberg and David Antenorrough Present . . .

In a Patch of Grass

Fran Hodgkins

Illustrated by Dan Tavis

David Antenorrough narrates this picture-book send-up of a nature documentary, sounding just like the real-life David but with six limbs for his trademark gesticulations. Director Steven Spielberg tries to keep the cast of characters on task, but it’s worse than herding cats: The orb-weaving spider would like to eat one or two other actors; the grasshopper is a diva; the worm is too busy munching dirt to emerge from the ground on cue; the robin has called in sick and fails to show up for the predation scene; and the slug is too embarrassed by his slime to perform. Then filming is interrupted by a wuffling noise and a foul-smelling hurricane as Fido the dog sniffs his way through the grass and onto the set. The panicked actors flee at top speed (which is not very fast in the slug’s case), but the intrepid Antenorrough continues narrating, Spielberg keeps directing, and they bring the film to a dramatic conclusion. Despite the chaos—or maybe because of it—we learn some things about these animals, and the backmatter gives more nature facts. But the main object is pure fun.

“Gorgeous visuals help shed light on the topic.”
—Kirkus Reviews

Light Speaks

Christine Layton

Illustrated by Luciana Navarro Powell

This enchanting nonfiction picture book catalogs and explores the joyful, mysterious, awe-inspiring, varied messages of light, whether emanating from a firefly or the sun, fireworks or the Big Bang, boats at sea or a bolt of lightning, a movie projector or a rainbow. Luciana Navarro Powell’s gorgeous, color-saturated illustrations follow a group of kids through a magical day and evening in a seacoast town, while Christine Layton’s lyrical text explores the natural history of light. Backmatter provides further adventures in the science of light.

Elephants Remember

A True Story
 Jennifer O'Connell

From the author and illustrator of The Eye of the Whale, this is the nonfiction picture book story of Lawrence Anthony and the wild animal reserve he created in Zululand, South Africa. The deep bond between this visionary man and the traumatized elephants he saved is at the heart of this story. When Lawrence died, elephants gathered outside his home from remote parts of the reserve to mourn him, and they returned on the first and second anniversaries of his death—because elephants remember.

“A compelling true story that will leave readers on the edges of their seats. Librarians and educators should prepare for a rush of elephant-related questions once this book hits the shelves, and caregivers may find themselves equally fascinated by this heartbreaking story of trust, survival, and loss. An excellent story, well told. You’ll remember it always.”

When little baby Zoo Sap falls from his family’s sled, he is all alone in the deep snow of the forest. His family, journeying to their winter home, doesn’t realize he has fallen out, but his cries summon the animals, who know they must keep him warm. One by one the fox, bear, moose, squirrel, and other animals settle around him, sharing their warmth. A warm and comforting bedtime story with a message of reverence for the natural world.

Allen Sockabasin was a Passamaquoddy citizen who devoted much of his time to teaching and preserving the Passamaquoddy language. A master musician, he wrote, performed, and recorded Passamaquoddy stories and songs. He was a tribal governor, a member of the tribal council, director of child welfare for his tribe, and a health educator. He was the father of six children and wrote Thanks to the Animals when his youngest, Zoo Sap, was a toddler. Allen died in 2018.

Youniverse

Lizelle van der Merwe

The Quantum Kaleidoscope of You

A child sees a world in a tidepool and an enchanted forest in a copse of trees. Songbirds speak messages. Moonlight whispers through an open window. The inner and outer worlds flow together without boundaries. Does growing up have to mean leaving that magic kingdom behind? Lizelle van der Merwe believes that a child’s sense of wonder should instead be encouraged, expanded, and immortalized with the real-life magic of science. The more we know about the quantum worlds within and outside us, the more wisdom is evident in a child’s view of the world.

Youniverse aims to inspire a reverence for our fragile blue planet voyaging through space. The lyrical text and simple, childlike illustrations linger on one object at a time, building a mind-liberating journey from electrons and photons through atoms, molecules, cells, and the human body; outward to the solar system, the Milky Way, and the universe; and backward to the beginning of time in the Big Bang. Light weaves through the pages as it weaves the universe together, showing us that we have almost everything in common with a quivering aspen leaf and the dust of a distant nebula. “Your imagination is the greatest of miracles,” van der Merwe writes, “a consciousness that contemplates the atoms and the stars from which it was made.”

This is a rhyming picture-book celebration of the ordinary people—grownups and kids—who hold our world together with their daily lives and work. We celebrate cops, firefighters, and soldiers, and rightly so. But let’s also celebrate teachers, bus drivers, grocery clerks, mail carriers, and the other folks who give a community its core identity. And let’s give a nod to kids, too—kids who are kind and brave and help each other. They’re heroes too.

In structure, flow, and pitch, They’re Heroes Too is very much like Pat Brisson’s Before We Eat (page 80), one of our bestselling picture books. Brisson excels in creating captivating poems of thanks for young kids.

“A true tale bound to inspire all young would-be inventors.”

—Booklist

This is Richard Turere's true story of growing up on a farm in Kenya. A Maasai boy, Richard attended school when he could but more often was needed to herd his family's cattle. Richard's challenge was to protect the cows from the lions who prowled the night and were a constant threat to cattle. Desperate ranchers often killed lions, even though lions are at the core of Kenya's tourist trade and are protected. Richard noticed that lions stayed away when he was outside with a flashlight. At age 12, using salvaged electrical components, he surrounded the stockade with blinking lights, and the lions stayed away! His Lion Lights are now used on three continents to protect farm animals without harming predators.

“How could we protect lions and livestock? It was a conservation crisis. Expert solutions failed, but Richard came up with something that worked.”

—Paula Kahumbu, executive director of the Kenya Land Conservation Trust and CEO of Wildlife Direct “Lion Lights seem simple, but then again the best solutions always do. Since Richard invented his system, lions have never killed our livestock.”

—Dr. Charles Musyoki, senior scientist, Kenya Wildlife Service

“Richard's system has been a huge success. People all over Kenya have begun copying it.”

—Lucy Waruingi, African Conservation Centre

“Sweet and lovely. Seamlessly weaves ‘big’ topics—perspective, frustration, patience—into a charming narrative that highlights the magical bond between father and son.”

—Savannah Guthrie, co-anchor of the NBC morning news show Today and co-author of Princesses Wear Pants and Princesses Save the World

“This wonderful story focuses on the bidirectional aspect of a good relationship between a dad and his child, in which they learn from each other.”

—Christopher Brown, president of the National Fatherhood Initiative

In this charming picture book story distilled from Ben Feller's own experience as a single parent, a dad counsels his son not to sweat the small stuff, and later the boy gives that counsel right back to his panicky dad. This is a children and dads story about a secret handshake, life's daily challenges, the wisdom of kids, and love conquering frustration.

Follow one krill among billions as it pursues its brief existence, eating and eating while metamorphosing from one thing into another and trying to avoid being eaten.

Krill are the largest animals able to catch and eat phytoplankton, and they in turn are eaten by the largest animals ever to live on earth—blue whales—as well as by seals, penguins, and a host of others. In other words, krill are really good at eating, and they make really good eating. And that makes them a keystone animal in the high-latitude oceans.

I Begin with Spring weaves natural history around Thoreau’s life and times in a richly illustrated field notebook format that can be opened anywhere and invites browsing on every page. Beginning each season with quotes from Thoreau’s schoolboy essay about the changing seasons, I Begin with Spring follows him through the fields and woods of Concord, the joys and challenges of growing up, his experiment with simple living on Walden Pond, and his participation in the abolition movement, self-reliance, science, and literature.

The book’s two organizing themes—the unfolding of Thoreau’s life and the seasonal cycle beginning with spring—interact on every spread, suggesting the correspondence of human seasons with nature’s.

JUVENILE FICTION/STEAM

“The book concludes with a fitting challenge to labels’ utility. Novgorodoff’s illustrations aptly portray people of various abilities, ages, cultures, religions, and skin tones, and a final portrait of Gato beneath the framed, cross-stitched adage ‘You be you’ resoundingly drives home Miller’s message of acceptance.”
—Publishers Weekly

“A fun romp of a book.”
—Youth Services Book Review

“Encourages everyone to celebrate their passions without a thought for labels.”
—The Florida Times-Union

Between his opening greeting and the bookend closing page on which he stalks away after taking no questions, Gato wants to make one thing perfectly clear: Although he has four legs, two ears, and a long, long tail, the word “cat” does not define him. His identity is his alone to describe and determine.

“A fun, furry lesson in rejecting labels and exploring one’s own identity.”

 PICTURE BOOK/NONFICTION

Sharon Wismer—reef ecologist and mom—is the best tour guide a kid could have for a visit to the underwater world of Australia’s Great Barrier Reef. Alice Wong’s richly detailed, accurate watercolors take a boy and girl snorkeling to see the fishes that maintain the ecological balance between the corals and their main competitor, algae. Without the fish species that brush, crop, scrape, excavate, and browse the algae, coral reefs would die. A coral reef is a brilliant and colorful example of how a complex ecosystem functions and why its keystone species are critical to its health.

The Great Barrier Reef is one of Earth’s most celebrated natural treasures. Here children discover why the reef is threatened and what we can all do to help protect it. Keepers of Reef is the rare children’s book combining cutting-edge science with narrative and pictorial magic. Thorough backmatter sources and resources are included.

“One of those rare children’s book that deftly combines cutting-edge science with narrative and pictorial magic. An ideal and unreservedly recommended addition to family, elementary school, and community library marine life picture book collections.”

—Midwest Book Review

Coral reefs are the gardens of the sea, and fish are the gardeners. Join two kids and a sea turtle for a journey through a fragile, beautiful ecosystem.

“A journey of discovery that will educate and inspire.”

—Dr. Jane Goodall, DBE, Founder of the Jane Goodall Institute, and UN Messenger of Peace

“Stunning. Wong’s watercolor illustrations expertly present scientific diagrams while simultaneously lending a magical and whimsical backdrop to this important text. A perfect companion text to other habitat and ecosystem resources.”

“I lack a mouth, but I can speak.... I lack hands, but I can push out unwanted guests.... I’m gentler than a feather, but I can cause harm....”

By turns playful, challenging, and devious, smoke boasts of the ways it has helped human civilization advance: coaxing seeds to sprout; driving out termites and rodents; sending signals over long distances; preserving and flavoring foods; soothing bees; mixing medicines; aiding religious ceremonies. But smoke tells us that it can also cause harm and will never be tamed. Smoke has been borne aloft from flames, and its elements returned to earth, since before recorded time; its cycles never end.

Henry Herz’s spare, riddling narrative finds its ideal complement in Mercè López’s illustrations, which she created by holding art paper over smudgy burning candles to capture swirls of smoke. She then extended and deepened these textures with watercolors and finished in Photoshop, and the results are mesmerizing.

Backmatter about the uses of smoke through history enhances the book for STEM learning.

PICTURE BOOK/FICTION

The narrator, a drum, wanders the streets of Coelho’s vividly realized city of musical instruments—where even the birds sprout miniature trumpets from their mouths—feeling like an outcast because he alone, among all his family and neighbors, can’t play a melody. He adores his violin brother, cello father, and piano mother but feels he has nothing to offer to their music. But one day a trio of saxophones ask him to join their band, and what they tell him gives him an epiphany: So that’s what a drum does! I now understand. I don’t carry a tune; I carry a band.

But he must still prove it to himself, and that takes all his courage. Lou BRIEL’s story of bravery and identity, infused with Latin rhythms and joy, provides a fine vehicle for Coelho’s vibrant technique and palette. Coelho’s city of music bursts with exuberance. In backmatter, Lou BRIEL, a lifelong drummer, explains how the drum kit lays a song’s foundation. The bass drum is the heartbeat; the hi-hat is the dynamic metronome; the snare drum is the drum kit’s singer.

★ “With captivating, luminously colorful illustrations and a vintage feel, the story serves as an apt allegory in how each individual instrument holds value in the force of music’s power.”

“Hogan's illustrations are almost all in velvety shades of blue to convey the darkness of the night, except for a pale green Luna moth and the golds and purples surrounding the stars. One double-page spread shows mother and son sitting close together, their bodies sprinkled with the same stars that dot the sky.”
—Horn Book Magazine

“A celebration of the darkness, the mysteries of night, the importance of keeping places unpolluted by overlighting, and, most of all, that there's wilderness out there, and there's also wilderness within us, and we need to be connected to it.”
—Boston Globe

Tamen longs to see the stars, but none are visible in the light-polluted sky above the fire escape of his apartment building. Even in the neighborhood park, the stars are hidden by city lights. So his mom, a nightshift nurse, finds a way to take him camping. For one magical night on the shore of a wilderness pond, the Milky Way in all its glory belongs to them.

With lyrical writing and outstanding underwater photography, this picture book follows a day in the life of the denizens lurking in the cold, tide-swept waters beneath a remote pier on the shore of a northern sea. A wolf fish munching a sea urchin, a hermit crab switching shells, a sea slug arming itself with stinging cells stolen from an anemone, a starfish thrusting its stomach through its mouth to digest its prey, exotic basket stars straining the water for food, a 35-pound hundred-year-old lobster guarding his domain, and other creatures take us from dawn to darkness. Panoramic paintings show the bigger picture, including the eyes of nighttime predators and the creatures who are missing the following morning. An appendix of macro-photos shows the tiny animals that are critical to the food web.

Paul Erickson (Newburyport, MA) creates exhibits, websites, guides, and videos for zoos, museums, and aquariums including the New England Aquarium, the Houston Zoo, ZooMiami, the Friends of the Los Angeles River, the Museum of Science and Discovery, and many others. He has authored or co-authored numerous magazine articles and three books about undersea life. He is the author of Don't Mess with Me: The Strange Lives of Venomous Sea Creatures (page 51). Andrew Martinez (Danbury, MA) travels the world to photograph sea life.

Little Blue House Beside the Sea

Jo Ellen Bogart • Illustrated by Carme Lemniscates

The little blue house in this board book could be overlooking any ocean, and the narrator could be any child anywhere, gazing out over the waters, thinking about all the places she could go and imagining other little blue houses on other shores, with other children gazing back. This book's bright primary colors are perfect for babies, and its rhymed couplets are perfect for read-aloud magic.

This child's poem of praise and affection for the sea is now a BOARD BOOK too.

Available in hardcover and paperback editions, the newest book in the HOW NATURE WORKS series.

All animals need oxygen to live, and some have developed bizarre ways of getting it. Weird and wonderful (as only nature can be!), and with spectacular photography, this book explores the methods whales, snakes, birds, salamanders, horseshoe crabs, jellyfish, and other animals have evolved to breathe. One species of water beetle dives underwater with an air bubble that it uses like a scuba tank. Some maggots living in mud or sewage make snorkels for breathing. And yes, damsel fly larvae and at least one species of turtle breathe through their butts.

“A breath of fresh air for stale science shelves.”

DON'T MESS WITH ME

The Strange Lives of Venomous Sea Creatures

Paul Erickson

Photographs by Andrew Martinez

Scorpions and rattlesnakes are fine as far as they go, but they've got nothing on venomous sea creatures. Octopi, stingrays, stonefish, urchins—you can choose your poison in the ocean. Banded sea snakes wriggle into undersea caves to prey on vicious moray eels. Lion's mane jellies dangle tentacles like poisonous curtains as they drift through midnight seas, trolling the depths for prey. Delicate-looking anemones paralyze and ingest passing sea urchins, spines and all. Corals and fireworms and snails, oh my! How did these venomous animals evolve?

The Cottonwood Tree

Serena Mangus • Illustrated by Anait Semirdzhyan

Cottonwood trees grow throughout North America and play a critical role in their ecosystems, yet little has been written about them. In this “autobiography,” a cottonwood tree tells its life story beginning when it is only a seed in a bed of fluff, floating over a river somewhere in the American heartland, and ending more than 80 years later when it is toppled by a fierce storm. Along the way the seed grows into a majestic tree, spreading its life-giving branches to birds, insects, and animals.

The tree recounts its visits over the years by a special human who was born in the same year. As a boy, this human climbs the cottonwood’s branches to watch the river and dream. As a father, he brings his daughter to visit. As an old man he grieves to see the tree knocked down but rejoices when he sees new sprouts emerging from the stump. He knows the tree is not done yet!

Captions throughout the book relate the natural histories of animals in and around the tree, and the backmatter offers further resources.

“A reassuring reminder of life’s eternal cycles. All members of this riparian ecosystem—and the visiting humans—come alive. Sincere and life-affirming.”

—Kirkus Reviews

“Sweet and simply charming. Excellent storytelling. Even the informational text is engaging. Enchanting. Do not miss this one.”

—Manhattan Book Review

“A wonderful story for budding naturalists.”

On my second birthday, deer visit me. They scratch their thick fur on my trunk, nibble my new growth, and rest in the shade of my leaves. I'm glad the deer don't eat all of me, and I'm glad they don't push me over!

I am a cottonwood sapling.

Deer have a big appetite for saplings. They eat the young twigs, branches and leaves. In large numbers, deer can kill a sapling by eating all the new growth or by breaking the sapling's trunk.

My Monster Moofy

Story by Annie Watson • Pictures by Eric Zelz

There's a monster under my bed who changes like a chameleon.

He can be motionless, like a rock with a tail, or he can strike with blinding speed, like a lightning bolt with claws.

My monster's name is Moofy. His ears are as pointy as tortilla chips and his tongue is as pink as bubblegum, but his teeth are as sharp as swords.

By day, Moofy is a fur rug in the sunshine.

By night, he's a pair of glowing lights in the darkness.

With those opening lines, we've already encountered similes using like, similes using as, and metaphors. Personifications, idioms, hyperboles, allusions, and much more lie ahead. But this isn't a writing guide, it's a picture book story about a little monster who oozes personality. The first pages leave us guessing, but kids will soon figure out, to their delight, that Moofy's a cat. And what else could this furball of mischief be?

Fun is the order of the day, but an unobtrusive banner on each page lets interested readers know which figure of speech is being featured. This is a book a young reader and future writer can grow with.

★ “An excellent resource for an elementary language-arts classroom or an ideal gift for a young, budding writer. A delightful picture-book introduction to poetic devices.”

Forgive and be forgiven. It sounds so appealing—why doesn't it happen every day? Finding herself forgiven on a rain-scrubbed morning after a difficult day, Melena seizes her fresh start and shares the song in her heart with her family and friends. It's a day of new beginnings. It's Melena's jubilee. Melena is thoroughly appealing and so is this Own Voices story.

Born in Canada, Zetta Elliott moved to the U.S. in 1994 and now lives in Evanston, IL. Her poetry has been published in several anthologies, and her plays have been staged in New York, Chicago, and Cleveland. Her essays have appeared in The Huffington Post, School Library Journal, and Publishers Weekly. She is the author of more than twenty books for young readers, including the award-winning picture books Bird and Say Her Name. Three of her books have been named Best Children's Books of the Year by the Bank Street Center for Children's Literature.

Aaron Boyd is the illustrator of 25 children's books including Luigi and the Barefoot Races, Babu's Song, Daddy Goes to Work, and the Panda Goes to School series. His pop-up Storybook Year won a Clio Top 4 award and was inducted into the Smithsonian Rare Books collection. He has also received Children's Africana Book, Choices Sports, Notable Children's Book, and Hermes Creative awards, and his advertising graphics have received Addy Gold and Graphis awards.

The First Blade of Sweetgrass

Story by Suzanne Greenlaw and Gabriel Frey

Illustrations by Nancy Baker

In this Own Voices Native American picture book, a modern Wabanaki girl is excited to accompany her grandmother for the first time to harvest sweetgrass for basket making. She must overcome her impatience while learning to distinguish sweetgrass from other salt marsh grasses, but slowly the spirit and peace of her surroundings speak to her, and she gathers sweetgrass as her ancestors have done for centuries, leaving the first blade she sees to grow for future generations. This sweet, authentic story from a Maliseet mother and her Passamaquoddy husband includes backmatter about traditional basket making and a Wabanaki glossary.

Have I Ever Told You Black Lives Matter?

Shani Mahiri King

Illustrated and designed by Bobby C. Martin Jr.

“The pages are wonderfully alive with electric hues. The book’s narrative rhythms portray time as a river of swirling currents as opposed to points on a straight line. King’s long view of history connects the past strongly to the present, and vice versa.”

—New York Times Book Review

★ “Black history and culture come alive in this celebratory biography, whose fresh, pop-art style bursts with color and creatively sized and set sans-serif font. This book powerfully reflects current events and attitudes while raising up Black Americans past and present.”
—Booklist (starred review)

“The litany is rhythmic and powerful. The historical and contemporary examples of Black excellence effectively build up a sense of confidence and indisputable value before the Black lives cut short by violence are named, so that these acts of violence are seen in proper context as wrongful denial of a birthright.”

—Kirkus Reviews

“Testament to how beautiful typography can influence a book’s design. A combination of bright colors, silhouettes, and names decorate the pages, inviting the reader to take it all in. The text is magnificent. It could be used and studied all year long. Absolutely required reading in middle school classrooms.”

—The Tiny Activist

“Highly informative, beautifully designed, and accessibly written.”

—Youth Services Book Review (starred)

Owen’s family has planted native shrubs, trees, and perennials around their house, providing food and habitat for the birds Owen loves. He hopes to see a rare Cerulean warbler—perhaps the same one that visited last year.

In early April, as Owen and his sister search the hickories, oaks, and dogwoods for returning birds, a huge group of birds leaves the misty mountain slopes of the Yucatan peninsula for the 600-mile flight across the Gulf of Mexico to their summer nesting grounds. One of them is a Cerulean warbler. He will lose more than half his body weight even if the journey goes well. Aloft over the vast ocean, the birds encourage each other with squeaky chirps that say, “We are still alive. We can do this.”

Owen’s family watches televised reports of a great storm over the Gulf of Mexico, fearing what it may mean for migrating songbirds. In alternating spreads, we wait and hope with Owen, then struggle through the storm with the warbler.

This moving story with its hopeful ending appeals to us to preserve the things we love. The back-matter includes a North American bird migration map, birding information for kids, and guidance for how native plantings can transform yards into bird and wildlife habitat.

“Compassionate and earnest.”

—Horn Book

Brooklyn is a strange, intimidating place for a girl who speaks no English when she steps off her very first plane after a flight from the Dominican Republic. Jessica and her mom, Camila, must live in their cousins’ crowded apartment until Camila finds work making holiday decorations and they can afford their own place. Isolated on the playground and baffled in class, Jessica is intensely homesick. But little by little, things get better. She begins to learn English, and she loves the cats she and her mom care for to earn extra money. Left behind by traveling owners, the cats make the best of their situation, inspiring Jessica to do the same.

“A story full of vitality and compassion, Starting Over in Sunset Park will speak to all readers but will resonate most strongly with anyone who has ever made a home in a new country.”

If Picasso Painted a Snowman

Amy Newbold

Illustrated by Greg Newbold

How does an artist’s imagination summon magic from a prosaic subject? Greg Newbold’s chameleon-like artistry shows us Roy Lichtenstein’s snow hero saving the day, Georgia O’Keeffe’s snowman blooming in the desert, Claude Monet’s snowmen among haystacks, Grant Wood’s American Gothic snowman, Jackson Pollock’s snowman in ten thousand splats, Salvador Dali’s snowmen dripping like melty cheese, and snowmen as they might have been rendered by J. M. W. Turner, Gustav Klimt, Paul Klee, Marc Chagall, Georges Seurat, Pablita Velarde, Piet Mondrian, Sonia Delaunay, Jacob Lawrence, and Vincent van Gogh.

CHARLOTTE'S BONES

The Beluga Whale in a Farmer's Field

Erin Rounds

Illustrated by Alison Carver

Many thousands of years ago, when a mile-thick sheet of ice began to let go of the land, the Atlantic Ocean flooded green valleys that had been scooped by glaciers, and the salty waves of an inland sea lapped the green hills of Vermont. Into this arm of the sea swam the beluga whale now known as Charlotte, Vermont's state fossil. This is Charlotte's story.

I AM DARN TOUGH

Licia Morelli

Illustrated by Maine Diaz

Grit. Perseverance. The ability to keep going when the going is hard. Everyone wants these qualities, and one way that girls (and boys!) become stronger and more resilient is simply by realizing how strong and resilient they already are. Running provides a pathway to that realization, helping kids discover inner fortitude.

Refusing to quit, overcoming obstacles and self-doubt to finish a long run, the resolute narrator of I Am Darn Tough realizes that she is strong inside and out. This beautifully illustrated story can inspire any child, anytime, who wants to run toward greater confidence in herself.

Illustrated by Nicole Wong

Bank Street Best 2021

Joshua and his grandfather love being together. But Grandpa gets sick and is in the hospital a long time. When he gets out, he and Joshua share one more fishing adventure, and Grandpa promises Joshua that he will always be near. "Think of it this way," Grandpa says. "Today, you and I are like two fish swimming together in this lake. When I die, things will be different. I won't be a fish anymore, but I'll become something even better. My love will be like the water in the lake. You might think I'm not with you, but we'll be closer than ever because you'll be surrounded by my love." Long after Grandpa dies, Joshua comes to understand that Grandpa kept his promise—and that love and its memory survive death.

"A moving story of a grandfather's love for his grandson. They share a special bond of fishing together. As he grows older and becomes ill, the two share an intimate discussion on dying, which is a wonderful way to explain to young children how someone they care for deeply will always be with them through their memories."

GLORIA'S BIG PROBLEM

Sarah Stiles Bright

Illustrated by Mike Deas

A CBC Recommended Book

Gloria loves to sing, dance, and act in her bedroom, but not in public. No way. Gloria's big problem makes sure of that, following her wherever she goes and constantly reminding her that she's anxious and frightened, that she's not good enough, and that everyone will laugh at her. Until one day, Gloria summons all her courage to try out for a community theater production. She marches herself to the audition, and her big problem marches behind her. She gets up on stage, and her big problem laughs at her from the front row. And then at last she yells "STOP!", and her big problem shrinks to a little problem, and Gloria wins a part in the play.

Gloria's Big Problem reassures kids that anxieties are common, not weird, and that being brave doesn't mean having no fear—it means overcoming the fears we have.

"There's a lot of empathy and solidarity in these pages."

Kanzi's family has moved from Egypt to America, and on her first day in a new school, what she wants more than anything is to fit in. Maybe that's why she forgets to take the kofta sandwich her father has made for her lunch, but that backfires when Mama shows up at school with the sandwich. Mama wears a hijab and calls her daughter Habibt (dear one). When she leaves, the teasing starts. This authentic story with beautiful illustrations includes a glossary of Arabic words and a presentation of Arabic letters with their phonetic English equivalents.

"A helpful window into the experiences of immigrant children."

WHEN THE EARTH SHOOK

Words by Lisa Lucas

Pictures by Laurie Stein

Chosen as one of 2020's Best Books for Kids & Teens by the Canadian Children's Book Centre

Alya and Atik are stars. Their job is to twinkle in the night sky over Earth, and for billions of years they do it well. Plants stretch toward them. Animals look up at them. And, eventually, humans gaze up at them and marvel. But then humans invent powerplants, factories, and cars, and smog pours into Earth's atmosphere. It becomes harder and harder for Alya and Atik to do their jobs—until, finally, the stars yell at Earth, and Earth feels sick and begins to shake, and things look pretty dire.

"The message is clear and powerful, yet presented in a manner that is educational, not too intimidating, and shows a real promise for the future if we all work together. A 'must have' for any public or elementary school library."

COMMON CRITTERS

The Wildlife in Your Neighborhood

Poems by Pat Brisson

Illustrated by Dan Tavis

Common Critters celebrates neighborhood wildlife in verse. A familiar cast of characters—caterpillars, ladybugs, robins, houseflies, spiders, squirrels, skunks, and others—crawls, runs, buzzes, and flits through these lively poems, which show how exotic these seemingly ordinary creatures really are. Dan Tavis's humorous illustrations crank up the delight, and a child wanting to learn more will find it in the natural-history backmatter. Pat Brisson employs a variety of verse forms in the book, and she shows how it's done in a back-of-book feature called "A Peek into the Poet's Toolkit." Common Critters is a three-tool STEAM book with delightful reading, natural history, and language skills rolled into one.

"The poems are fun and provide nuggets of scientific information. Delightful cartoons add uncommon whimsy throughout. Further notes in the backmatter about the critters and poetry lend weight to the volume. An uncommon introduction to poetry."

—Kirkus Reviews

"Superlative backmatter."

—Publishers Weekly

"The poems are light and fun, while the entertaining illustrations will draw in readers."
